Eric Lutz and John Faria Acquire MDCOM

Long Time Employees and Industry Professionals Purchase Massachusetts' Leading Telecommunications Provider

TAUNTON, MA — March 15, 2006 — MDCOM, a leader in telecommunications, announced today that the company was acquired by Eric Lutz and John Faria, both seasoned employees of the organization and industry experts. Founded in 1979, MDCOM is a full service telecommunications company operating throughout the Northeast. The company's focus is on implementing technologies to help the region's businesses increase profitability, while ensuring that they receive the highest levels of customer care.

"Under the leadership of the previous owner, the company experienced a number of changes due to industry trends and new technologies," said Eric Lutz, president of MDCOM. "With the recent convergence of voice and data, more commonly known as VoIP, the way in which businesses communicate are becoming even more advanced and complex. The owner felt unsure of his level of commitment to keep up with these new innovations. By the same token, he felt an obligation to MDCOM's loyal customer base to ensure they received a high level of service. The situation presented us with an excellent business opportunity because John and I saw untapped market potential. Additionally, we were personally committed to taking care of the organization's customer base and assisting every company achieve their business objectives."

The partners' vision for MDCOM is to be the best choice for businesses looking to make technology improvements and gain a sustainable competitive advantage. The mission of the company remains the same, which is to provide advanced solutions for business communications, to install products from dedicated manufacturers with experience and vision, to support these products with professional and responsive service, and to conduct business with honesty, integrity and commitment.

Throughout the years, MDCOM has provided a wide range of successful implementations for telecommunications systems that have ranged from relatively small and straightforward to large and extremely complex environments serving thousands. The company is committed to selling only the top technology products in the industry. Additionally, MDCOM has made and under the guidance of Mr. Lutz will continue to make significant investments in employee education supporting their quest to pursue industry certifications, while enabling them to stay on top of the latest developments in technology.

MDCOM took advantage of an opportunity to move to a new corporate headquarters in the Myles Standish Industrial Park on 125 John Hancock Rd., Taunton, MA 02780. The company's new facility is more conveniently located (near the intersection of Interstate 495 and 95) and contains a state-of-the-art demo and conference room where customers can view live demonstrations of a variety of technologies.

"This is an exciting time for MDCOM, its employees, and our customers," stated John Faria, vice president and treasurer of MDCOM. "Eric and I are extremely proud to have helped build MDCOM into the company that it is today. The rate at which we are recommended to others by our existing customer base is a good indicator of our success. The highly experienced team we have in place is dedicated to staying at the forefront of telecommunications and adapting to industry trends. We're looking forward to leading our company and building life-long relationships with our customers and strategic business partners."
